

WASHINGTONIAN

March 2011

Food & Drink

Q&A KLIMAN ONLINE

Todd Kliman takes your questions Tuesdays at 11 AM at Washingtonian.com

Adour's perfectly puffed hazelnut soufflé is one of the city's best desserts.

Which restaurants are serving great desserts these days?

I love the dessert menu at Adour (St. Regis, 923 16th St., NW; 202-509-8000). You know the moment that comes after you close the dessert menu, when you look at the person sitting across from you and you decide to split something, not because you're trying to stick to a diet but because nothing looks good enough to splurge on? That moment never comes at Adour. Just the opposite: You decide to order a dessert each because everything sounds so good. The hazelnut soufflé is sublime, and the baba au rhum just might be my favorite dessert in Washington right now.